Excerpt from And the Higher Criticism: A Reply to Professor Harnack s What Is Christianity The Gospel of John, of course, goes over board. It does not emanate from the apostle John, and it cannot be taken as an historical authority in the ordinary sense of the The genuineness of the fourth gospel is too well established to be dismissed in this jaunty way by a wave of the hand. If in any other Sphere than that of religious controversy a writer were to treat in such a contemptuous fashion the convictions and conclusions of scholars and thinkers as competent and trust worthy as himself, he would be told - well, he would be told what Prof. Harnack needs to be told here. But I will leave it to someone else to say, for I am neither a scholar nor a university professor nor a professional theologian. But I may claim to be, at least, as competent as he is to discriminate between fact and fiction, to detect a fraud, to pursue an inquiry which requires practical acquaintance with the science of evidence. I propose, therefore, to bring his methods to bear upon his own position. A sceptic both by temperament and by training.
